

THE Getting Through PROJECT

With you every step of the way

We're here to help families get through the shock of a family member suspected of accessing indecent images of children.

We know that having a family member facing arrest, court or prison can be overwhelming and difficult.

The Getting Through Project offers free, independent services for family members of people who are being investigated for online sexual offences, accessing online indecent images of children and contact offences related to children.

The Getting Through Project is led by Sussex Prisoners' Families in partnership with Sussex Police and The National Lottery Community Fund.

WE CAN OFFER:

- Support from our friendly outreach team who can talk to you over the phone or who can meet you in your home or in a community venue (café or park).
- We can be your contact with criminal justice services such as the police, courts etc.
- Advice on how to talk to children about having a loved one involved in the criminal justice system.
- Peer to peer support groups with others in the same situation as you.
- Support at court for trials, hearings or sentencing.

Getting Through this challenging time starts with a conversation, and it can help to talk to someone who will listen and understand what you are feeling.
